Real time Control System Wikipedia

Real-time Control System (RCS) is a reference model architecture, suitable for many software-intensive, real-time control problem domains. RCS is a reference model architecture that defines the types of functions that are required in a real-time intelligent control system, and how these functions are related to each other.

PDF A realtime pattern generator for biped walking

For real-time walking control of a biped robot, we analyze the dynamics of a three-dimensional inverted pendulum whose motions are constrained onto an arbitrarily defined plane.

Trajectory Generation using Predictive PID Control for

However this control has an inconvenience such as the non respect of real-time constraints, due to the computation time and the output response establishing. In this paper we propose the predictive PID controller that imitate the calculated time and reduce the complexity of the control algorithm. The aim of this new control approach for biped robot is to make walking smoother and more efficient.
